Rawsonville

Chas. Voorheis visited his father-in-law in Canton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Robison have arrived in Sitka, Alaska.

Whitney Voorheis began the mason work on a new barn this week.

Mrs. John Raymond has an uncle and aunt from Dundee spending the week with her.

Mrs. Chas. Crittenden got badly poisoned with ivy last Tuesday about the face and eyes.

Bert Webster is working on the new house of Mrs. Patrick O'Brien, opposite the cheese factory near Whittaker's Corners.

The Q. M. of Friends will be held the 13th and 14 inst. at Raisin Valley in place of Ypsilanti town as has been customary in May.

Health Officer Dr. Huebner closed the churches at Stony Creek Sunday and also the Redner school for a week on account of the measles.

Mrs. Arthur Cross is suffering with La Grippe with gathering in her head. Dr. Hueston is attending her Her mother Mrs. Wilcox, of Otisville, is with her.

Geo Davis, of Stony Creek, is one of the liveliest men in his town. He is building a very neat, modern dwelling house, and is not suffering from broken bones as a result of a kicking horse as published last week. His brother Clarence is the unfortunate man.

Quite a few from this place attended the lecture given at the high school in Ypsilanti Monday evening, by Rev. Mr. Crooker, of Ann Arbor. Mr. Crooker in his younger days once taught in the modest town of Rawsonville where he made many friends.

The country is looking fine with its covering of green grass and fruit trees in full bloom. The apple blossoms fortell the luscious fruit hidden for future use. A very few blossoms on earlly peaches have surprised us, but late peaches are full as reported last week.